

ANGUIL

Anguil is Honored for Export Excellence by the SBA for both the State of Wisconsin and Midwest Region.

Anguil Environmental Systems Inc. has been honored for the second year in a row with the 2007 Small Industrial Exporter Award for the state of Wisconsin. Anguil was one of nine Wisconsin companies that received the Governor's Export Achievement Award from the offices of Governor Jim Doyle.

The Small Business Administration also recognized the company with a Regional award for Industrial Exporter of 2007 and Anguil is now being considered on the National level.

The Wisconsin International Trade Conference is the largest gathering of international trade professionals in the state. The award criteria included the degree of export-related growth; innovative techniques and approaches that resulted in the company's success; and demonstration of extra effort in capturing worldwide markets. Anguil is extremely honored to receive the acknowledgement in the Small Industrial Exporter Category and expects to see continued success overseas in the upcoming years.

"Wisconsin exports have shown four straight years of incredibly strong growth, and our growth continues to surpass that of the nation," Doyle said in a statement.
